AIDS has certainly affected my life and the way in which I view the world. It was devastating to see so many die. And the way that our society initially viewed and responded to the AIDS crisis is a painful memory. The prevention and treatment of AIDS is very important for all of us to understand. Awareness is key. Until there is a cure, we must support those living with HIV, and we must commemorate those who have died. Denver CAP's Red Ball is a great way for us to rally together in response to World AIDS Day on December 1st. NOx Clothing feel honored to have participated in the Red Ball.
